To Whom It May Concern:

Core Construction Company has just recently completed the about 13,000 SF of new addition and renovation work for the Mathematic and Statistics Department at University of North Florida. As the Project Manager for UNF, I have had the pleasure of working closely with Core Construction Company's professional team of Keith Cottrill (job superintendent) and Jay Chung who were attentive to working out details and made necessary adjustments to meet the needs of many challenging field conditions on this project.

Despite many changes that were made in the scope of work and the challenges of working within a very congested part of the campus, Core Construction made expeditious adjustments and manages the job well. This project was completed with time, budget and the Department was able to move into their new space earlier than anticipated.

I would highly recommend Core Construction Company as a general contractor capable of organizing, managing and successfully completing complicated projects in a professional manner. We look forward to working with Core Construction Company on future work here at University of North Florida.
